

Social Media Support for Nurses Across the Country

Nurses across the nation are experiencing alarming conditions at the bedside as a result of the current pandemic. It's important we all stay connected to one another as we face this unprecedented experience together.

To show your support for fellow nurses on social media, we have put together some information to help share with nurses across the nation. Tweet your messages to the following Twitter handles or reply with your support on their Facebook pages. On Twitter, also include some of the popular hashtags so more nurses will see your messages. Included below are some sample messages, but we encourage you to speak from the heart and write whatever you would like to say to support your colleagues during this difficult time.
